PEARL HARBOR

BY TASHA SILVERHORN O'odham Action News tasha.silverhorn2@srpmic-nsn.gov

On Friday, December 7, 1941, the United States naval base at Pearl Harbor in Honolulu, Hawaii, was attacked by 353 imperial Japanese aircraft. The attack destroyed 188 American aircraft and eight U.S. Navy battleships. Four of the battleships sank in the harbor: the California, the West Virginia, the Oklahoma and the Arizona. The toll was 2,403 Americans killed and 1,178 wounded.

On the day after the attack, President Franklin Roosevelt declared war on the Empire of Japan, launching the United States' entrance into World War II. He also declared the observance of Pearl Harbor Remembrance Day as an annual ceremony in remembrance of that day and those who lost their lives.

Each year, the Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community has held a memorial to remember the attack on Pearl Harbor. Staff members from Community departments such as the veterans' representatives, administration, Salt River Fire Department, Salt River Police Department and numerous veterans organizations come together to pay homage to those who fought bravely that day and to those who lost their lives.

The SRPMIC has a close tie to the Pearl Harbor Memorial in Hawaii thanks to the efforts of the late Joel Jefferson, a member of the American Legion Post #114 Bushmasters. In 2007, the Community received a U.S. flag that had flown over the USS Arizona Memorial at Pearl Harbor. Jefferson went through a lengthy process working with Skip Wheeler of the National Park Service, and on October 12, 2007, the American Legion Post #114 and the Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community were granted a flag in a special ceremony in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Jefferson pursued the flag as a way to remember all the highly decorated veterans from the Community who fought in World War II and to remember a very specific SRPMIC member, Raymond Valenzuela (U.S. Navy, World War II), who was at Pearl Harbor when the attack happened. Valenzuela helped sailors out of the water as he was on his way to his duty station when the attack began.

Each year this flag is shared with other communities and veterans' organizations around the state; they display it and give people around Arizona the opportunity to pay their respects and remember those who were

Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community President Martin Harvier interviews Salt River Food Distribution Center's Food Program Coordinator Daniel Chiago to help inform Community members about how they can obtain services from the Food Distribution Center.

BY CHRIS PICCIUOLO O'odham Action News chris.picciuolo@srpmic-nsn.gov

Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community Senior Environmental Specialist Jeremy Phillips, and the Community Development Department's Environmental Protection and Natural Resources (CDD/ EPNR) Division as a team, received the 2020 Conner Byestewa Jr. Environmentalist Award to recognize the efforts of individuals that have made and strengthened tribal selfgovernment and improved human health and environmental conditions with Indian Country in EPA Region 9. The late Byestewa was the director of the Environmental Protection and Agricultural Regulatory Office for the Colorado River Indian Tribes. Byestewa was also a member of the Regional Tribal Operations Committee (RTOC) for EPA Region 9 and worked on Western Regional Air Partnerships, perchlorate and pesticide issues. One of the main jobs Phillips has is to help other tribes, which includes implementing pesticide programs with the Tohono O'odham Nation, Cocopah Indian Tribe and Fort Yuma Quechan Indian Tribe. In the President's Weekly Update on Friday, November 20, Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community President Martin Harvier visited the Salt River Food Distribution Center and asked Food Program Coordinator Daniel Chiago a few questions about the processes there and how the food boxes are prepared and distributed to Community members.

Harvier and Chiago conducted a O&A interview to help inform Community members about how they can obtain services from the Food Distribution Center.

Q: How has the Salt River Food Distribution Program been serving the Community during this pandemic?

Since the pandemic began, the food bank has been doing quite well as far as serving the Community and neighboring cities that fall in the jurisdiction district zip codes of 85256 and 85203.

Q: Can anyone come to the food bank to receive one of these boxes?

Yes, anyone who does not live in the designated zip codes still can come on a one-time basis; we will provide them with one being treated fairly and that portable restrooms and proper sanitation stations are available.

"If there are pesticide applications being done, the farmers have to tell the workers to be careful working in or next to this or that field and make sure they wash their hands after touching chemicals or pesticides," said Phillips. "At SRPMIC, we're all team players. By me receiving this award, it's for all of us in our office. I do manage the pesticide and hazardous waste programs, but I also have people who help me. We all work together to help each other out."

food box and information on other food banks in their area.

Q: How does someone pick up a box?

It's quite simple: Patrons drive up and we go out and get some brief information from them, and then we place the food box in the trunk of their vehicle.

Q: When does the distribution take place?

Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; on Tuesdays, hours are 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Q: If someone is interested in helping to distribute food or donating food items, whom should they contact?

At this time, we are getting donated food from St. Mary's Food Bank only. We cannot accept personal food donations from homes due to the CO-VID-19 pandemic.

Q: Will the food bank be distributing anything special for the holidays? Yes, it gave out 150 turkeys for Community members on Tuesday, Community members on Tue November 24.

Harvier ended his visit by thanking Chiago and the Food Distribution Center staff for the work they do. "They provide a service to our members who are in need. Especially in these trying times with this COVID-19 pandemic and how it's affecting families, we appreciate all the work that they are doing here," Harvier said.

To learn how you can get a food box, call the Salt River Food Distribution Center at (480) 362-7277. Please remember to wear a mask when visiting the Food Distribution Center to help stop the spread of COVID-19.

there at Pearl Harbor that day.

Another big piece of the Pearl Harbor Memorial recently arrived in the Community: A piece of the USS Arizona battleship has found its final resting place right in the Community at the USS Arizona Memorial Gardens at Salt River Fields. The piece is the boathouse of the USS Arizona ship. It took veterans Ricardo Leonard, Robert Flores, Rick Hartman and Thomas Jackson seven years to obtain the piece of the ship for the Community. The boathouse relic has been placed in its housing unit located at the USS Arizona Memorial Gardens at Salt River Fields and is now open for public view.

The official opening of the USS Arizona Memorial Gardens at Salt River Fields took place in late February 2020. The 5-acre memorial features columns that form a scale outline of the battleship. There are more than 1,500 columns, representing all the crew members who served on that ship during the attack; gaps in that outline represent those who survived the attack. Each column represents a life that was lost that day of the Pearl Harbor attack. Each column illuminates at night, creating an entirely different atmosphere compared with the memorial during the day. Throughout the gardens are benches engraved with quotes from people who were there on the day of the Pearl Harbor attack, as well as plaques explaining the event's history.

A Pearl Harbor Day Memorial virtual event will take place at the Memorial Gardens on Monday, December 7. SRPMIC members and the public can view the live virtual event via the srpmicvets Facebook and Instagram pages starting at 9 a.m.

"We just want to thank veterans and remember those veterans," said Veterans Representative Troy Truax. "We appreciate their services, especially those who served in that era of World War II, the greatest generation to honor and respect. Being who we are as Native American people, we have stepped up to the call of duty to protect their land and families. If you asked any one of those people if they would serve again, they would automatically say they would do it again."

If you would like to pay your respects and learn more about the Pearl Harbor attack, you can visit the USS Arizona Memorial Gardens at Salt River Fields located at 7455 N. Pima Road, Scottsdale, or visit the website at discoversaltriver.com/uss-arizonamemorial-gardens-at-salt-river. The memorial is free and open to the public from dawn to dusk.

During this past Fall Overhaul program, Phillips noted that CDD/EPNR was able to help the Community get rid of about 400 pounds of pesticide waste, as well as toxic waste from car batteries and old computers.

Phillips sits on the EPA Region 9 Tribal Pesticide Program Council (TPPC) board out of San Francisco, California, and CDD/EPNR receives its funding out of this regional office. Like Byestewa, he is also on the Regional Tribal Operations Committee (RTOC) board, which meets on a quarterly basis to talk about the environmental problems the surrounding tribal communities are having, such as needing help with grants or funding for clean-air programs.

During November, the Alma School Road sign featured a painted tribute to our veterans. It was a silhouette of three soldiers, two of them helping their fallen comrade. To the right was a painted American flag; the message "Greater love has no one than this, that he lay down his life for his friends" was written to the left. This sign was painted by Community member Fawn Loring. Each month the sign features a tribute or other important message for the Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community and Indian Country. NCAI Virtual Convention Connect Tribal Leader to Discuss Native Topic and Issues

The National Congress of American Indians (NCAI) held its 77th Annual Convention and Marketplace during the week of November 8-13. This year the NCAI Convention went virtual due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Tribal leaders came together to discuss topics and issues such as the COVID-19 Pandemic, Violence Against Women, the Community Reinvestment Act, Communications for Tribal Governments, Retiring "Indian" School Mascots and more.

The Community Reinvestment Act session provided information on how access to capital, credit and financial services is a significant issue for tribal nations and Indigenous people. Panelists from the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System and Native American Finance Officers Association discussed the Community Reinvestment Act in Indian Country and efforts to modernize it.

Multimedia Resource and Development Specialist Kenrick Escalanti talked about the importance of digital storytelling in the 21st century in the "Communications for Tribal Governments: Digital Storytelling" session. The presentation's objective was to help tribal leaders maximize their messages with effective tools to better communicate through digital storytelling.

"We are showing the world that we are not just a moment in history, that we are not past tense. Native designers are showing that we are thriving and we remain vigilant for the equities that we all deserve, and we are not going to accept the indivisible label of 'something else," said Escalanti.

The "Retiring 'Indian' School Mascots: Informing, Tracking, and Fueling a Growing National Movement" session reviewed the national schoolmascot tracking database. The database has been used by NCAI to engage and inform local school communities about the harmful and offensive Native

"themed" mascots and the need to retire them.

One of the major topics among tribal communities was the COVID-19 pandemic, how it has affected tribes and communities and what resources are available to help assist them. Leaders learned how they can recover economically in the session "Economic Recovery Starts Within: COVID-19's Wake-Up Call for Indian Country" and how to receive resources from FEMA after the impacts of COVID-19 in the session "From Requests to Resources: Navigating FEMA During the CO-VID-19 Pandemic."

In the Economic Recovery Starts Within: COVID-19's Wake-Up Call for Indian Country tribal nations were informed on plans to recover economically from the coronavirus. The session focused on the importance of centering private-sector development in tribal economic recovery strategies through the creation of tribal laws and policies that drive widespread establishment and growth of small businesses owned and operated by tribal citizens. It also included a formal, nationwide mandate on the part of tribal government, businesses and citizens to do business with those businesses.

In the "From Requests to Resources: Navigating FEMA During the CO-VID-19 Pandemic" session, the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) tribal liaison, Norma E. Reyes, talked about her efforts in keeping the 68 tribal nations in FEMA Region 6 informed of FEMA's recovery programs that can be applied for after natural disasters in their areas.

FEMA Public Assistance Program Deputy Branch Chief Julia Moline explained the process of applying for FEMA public assistance, particularly the COVID-19 application.

"Once a disaster has been declared, a tribal government may become an applicant or recipient," said Moline. "To apply there is a virtual application and you go through a set of phases. Applicants have to create an account, submit a request for public assistance and complete a COVID-19 streamlined project; if approved, they can receive funding."

The application process can be very thorough and meticulous, so it is important to be patient when applying for assistance from FEMA.

SRPMIC Special Assistant on Congressional and Legislative Affairs Gary Bohnee took part in the NCAI virtual conference; he explained that there were a number of resolutions that passed on the last day of the virtual event. These resolutions related to the transition to the new U.S. president.

"One that comes to mind is the resolution to support a Native American to head up the U.S. Department of the Interior," said Bohnee. "This resolution would push to get current New Mexico Congresswoman Deb Haaland to be nominated for that position. If she were appointed, she would be the first Native American woman and Native person to fill the shoes of the Department of the Interior.

"From my vantage point, if there were a Native American nominated to head the Interior Department, it would benefit all tribes, including Salt River," said Bohnee when asked if there were any topics that would relate to the SRP-MIC. "Mainly because we're always looking for greater funding for selfgovernance programming and most BIA programs, through the Bureau of Indian Affairs to the extent that there would be an advocate for that in a position that could change and provide more funding that's a good thing."

There were also resolutions relating to continuing support for COVID-19, which would provide more funding to fight the pandemic. A variety of other issues, including implementation of the Violence Against Women Act and support for other initiatives, are making their way through Congress, explained Bohnee.

One other resolution related to CO-VID-19 passed by the U.S. House of Representatives earlier this year gives tribes $8 billion, of which the Community received around $60 million to fund direct activity related to COV-ID-19. This resolution would essentially provide $20 billion in direct funding for tribes, which is an increase of about $12 billion of the CARES Act; this resolution would help tribes fight the pandemic as it continues.

"It's interesting this conference was done all digitally," said Bohnee on what he thought about the virtual conference. "I think the participation from tribal leaders from the Western Caucus perspective was not what we normally see when we have face-to-face meetings, so I think that is going to be a challenge to see if more tribes will virtually participate in important conferences, such as this annual conference, in the future."

The next big NCAI event will be the Mid-Year Conference and Marketplace in June 2021 in Anchorage, Alaska. It is unclear if the pandemic will cause any changes to that event. For more information on NCAI, visit www.ncai.org.

Off. Quentin Shoemaker grew up in Phoenix and at 22 years old joined the United States Air Force as a military police officer. After completing his active service, Shoemaker re-trained as an aircraft mechanic in the Arizona Air National Guard. Off. Shoemaker worked at the Maricopa County Sheriff's Office before coming over to SRPD. He enjoys hiking, woodworking and reading in his free time. Shoemaker ness to serve the Community as solo beat police officers.

"The Community has great reason to be so proud of these three newly hired police officers," said Chief Karl G. Auerbach. Off. Erica Jakupi, Off. Zachary Kennedy and Off. Quentin Shoemaker have considerable experience as police officers, and Off. Zachary Kennedy and Off. Quentin Shoemaker both have military experience. All three police officers have substantial training and skill sets, and each fully embraces and understands our community-based policing philosophy. Native Art Market Grand Opening

BY MARISSA JOHNSON O'odham Action News marissa.johnson2@srpmic-nsn.gov

The Pavilions at Talking Stick continues to welcome new businesses. One special event is also very popular: the annual Native Art Market, located near Discount Tire. The open-air market, held during the winter months of November through March, offers all types of authentic Native American jewelry and art, as well as American Indian chefs hosting cooking demonstrations and tribal dancers.

The market is usually up and running at the Pavilions by now. However, due to a delay in receiving outdoor permits, the Native Art Market will be housed in a storefront in Old Town Scottsdale, its first permanent location. The grand opening was held on November 21, for Native American Heritage Month, fulfilling a dream for Heather Tracy and her mother, Denise Rosales, who created the Native Art Market, and for all "My mother was actually accepted into a show at Old Town Scottsdale," Tracy said. "When she set up, they actually told her, her second time setting up, that she could no longer be a part of the market. And that was because she was a Native American selling Native American jewelry. And it was a conflict of competition with the surrounding businesses, because that is what they mainly profit off of. She was pretty upset when that happened, because she was really excited to be accepted into that show. So when she was told that she could no longer be a part of it, she felt 'Well that's not fair; maybe we should go ahead and try to build something specifically for the Native Community.' ... So, that is how we came up with the idea.

"It did take us a couple of years to actually find a location," Tracy continued. "We had a lot of meetings with different venues to see if we could host a market. We got a lot of no's, got a lot of advocate for what we are doing, which 'maybe in the future.' But when we met with the management at the Pavilions at Talking Stick, we walked in the office with our business plan, super nervous as usual, and before we even sat down he goes, 'This is a great idea! I'm so excited you're here. I can't believe no one is actually doing this!' So, he was one of the first people who saw what we were envisioning for the market and how we wanted to do it. He was just the first person who actually said, 'You have my full support."" Tracy added, "Discover Salt River has also been a super big supporter in this, especially Blessing McAnlis-Vasquez, who is the head of tourism in Salt River. When she heard the idea, she was the one who suggested the Pavilions. She was and still is a huge

Christmas Angel Tree Program Continues at SRPMIC

BY CHRIS PICCIUOLO O'odham Action News chris.picciuolo@srpmic-nsn.gov

With the help of Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community departments, Social Services is continuing the near-decade run of the Christmas Angel Tree program this year.

Senior Behavioral Health Counselor Annamari Hogan from Health and Human Services explained that the last day to apply to have your child sponsored was Friday, November 20, and there are many children left to be sponsored.

All gifts should be turned in for processing by December 4, but if more time is needed, contact Hogan via email at annamari.hogan@srpmic-nsn.gov or by phone at (480) 362-2733.

Sponsors were able to choose to "adopt" angels (children) and purchase Christmas gifts for them. They can specify how many angels they wish to adopt and make any gender or age preferences. Another way of adopting is to sponsor an entire family group of any size, which includes caregivers; or they can participate by donating gifts.

Ideas for gifts include baby items, dolls, action figures, trucks, play items, headphones, speakers, posters, tablets or gift cards.

"This year has changed the way we run the program, due to COVID-19. We have lost a lot of our major sponsors that we have had in the past, and we could use all the support we can get," said Hogan. "This program is such a fun and amazing way to give back to the Community and to ensure that every little one has a blessed Christmas to this is a lot of people's livelihood, how they make their money," Tracy said. "We had to cancel two of our biggest weekends; it was hard for us to do that.' But she said that the vendors who had to be turned away this year were flexible; they refused refunds and asked just to be scheduled for opening weekend. "That's how much the community supports and trusts us in that sense." COVID-19 has slowed the process of getting the permits needed to continue the market this year at the Scottsdale Pavilions. This has only pushed Tracy and her family to go for their dream of opening the second location, a permanent store, a dream that started with their mother when Tracy and her siblings were kids.

"We've already been renovating for the last couple of weeks," Tracy said. "And we're scheduled to open the indoor market this Saturday at 4 p.m. We'll be doing the ribbon-cutting and we'll have all of our people here so you can meet and greet with them. ... We're in Old Town Scottsdale, right across from (Gilbert) Ortega on Scottsdale Road and Main Street. My mom has been dreaming about this store since we were young little kids." The indoor Native Art Market will continue to run every weekend. The layout will be an open and safe environment, following COVID guidelines. The Native Art Market at Scottsdale Pavilions will also open in a few weeks, once redesigned layouts are placed for social distancing. Vendors will be spaced 20 feet apart, and a maximum of 50 shoppers will be admitted at one time. In the future they plan on adding a farmers' market section featuring the Indigenous agriculture community at the outdoor Native Art Market in fall 2021.

the volunteers who came out to get the store ready for the opening.

"The Native Art Market is a project that we started about three years ago in 2018," Tracy said. "Originally it was an outdoor market, [but] for about two years now we've been hosting 30 to 40 artists at the Talking Stick Casino. This is supposed to be our third season, but we haven't gotten our outdoor permits yet due to COVID-19. They said any day now we should be getting those so we can restart the outdoor market [at the Pavilions].'

Tracy shared where the idea of the market came from. Rosales, a Navajo, has been weaving rugs, making jewelry and making traditional pottery and dreamed of a location where the pieces could be sold year round.

When the Native Art Market first began, they started with one performer who played the flute to give the market some American Indian ambience. After a month, more performers and dancers came forward wanting to help contribute. They now have more than 25 different performance groups that rotate on the weekends. They use the vendor space fees to pay for all the marketing and to pay the performers. They do not profit from the market; it goes back into the market to make it bigger and better for everybody involved.

COVID-19 put everyone's plans on hold. This includes the Native Art Market, which is usually up and running by now.

2020 World AIDS Day: Ending the HIV/ AIDS Epidemic Through Resilience and Impact

BY TASHA SILVERHORN O'odham Action News tasha.silverhorn2@srpmic-nsn.gov

For the past 40 years, the HIV/AIDS epidemic has taken millions of lives. Every December 1 is Worlds AIDS Day, dedicated to remembering those who lost their lives from this disease, educating people about HIV/AIDS, and celebrating advancements in battling HIV/AIDS.

HIV/AIDS is disease that interferes with the body's ability to fight infections. It is transmitted through infected blood, semen and vaginal fluids and causes symptoms within a few weeks after transmission. Symptoms can mimic flu-like symptoms such as fatigue, fever and sore throat. As the disease progresses into AIDS, symptoms progress to weight loss, night sweats and recurrent infections. Unfortunately, there is no cure, but there are treatments such as anti-retroviral therapy that can help slow the progress of the disease and prolong life span.

According to hiv.org, the theme for this year's observance is "Ending the HIV/AIDS Epidemic: Resilience and Impact." This year's theme reinforces the impact of the data, how prevention and treatment help those who need it, and educating people to tackle stigmas and discrimination.

A grassroots effort that was created in 2016, the National Native HIV Network (NNHN) has supported the American Indian, Alaska Native and Native Hawaiian communities that receive funding from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services from the Minority HIV/ AIDS Fund. This fund helps provide services to indigenous people including treatment, medication, education and support.

The NNHN has continued its efforts to support indigenous people through a number of webinars on self-testing, preexposure prophylaxis prevention, harmreduction strategies, and how programs can work with partners to support HIV program sustainability.

SRPD Participates in No Shave November Campaign for Charity

BY CHRIS PICCIUOLO O'odham Action News chris.picciuolo@srpmic-nsn.gov

For the third year in a row, the Salt River Police Department is running the No-Shave November campaign to raise funds for the Salt River Community Children's Foundation.

Some officers and other SRPD staff are letting their facial hair grow out during November. To continue the event, next up will be "Double Down December" and possibly "Just Keep It January," due to the popularity of noshave campaigns.

So far this year there has been an excellent turnout for the event. A current tally of the funds raised was not released as of November 20, but the SRPD previously raised around $7,000 from the event, which was directed to the SRCCF and the Kickball with the Cops program.

SRPD was looking to create events and opportunities to reach out and contact the children within the Community in a fun setting, according to SRPD Community-based Policing and Public Information Officer Joseph Orozco.

"This event is an outlet for our officers to be able to help fund events like Kickball with the Cops, where our officers get to hang out with the kids in a fun setting and it gives them a regenerative focus on what matters most," said Off. Orozco. "As you can imagine, our officers have to deal with many challenges within the career of law enforcement. To be able to assist the SRCCF in connecting with and assisting the children of the Community while simultaneously allowing our officers to 'recharge their batteries' in a sense, it's truly a gift for us to help give back."

In 2019, the SRCCF invited SRPD to a lunch where some of the youth who received funding assistance from the No-Shave events explained how they were positively impacted by the program.

SRPD also has a GoFundMe campaign set up for the cause, which can be found on the SRPD Facebook page at https://www.facebook.com/SaltRiverPD.

Journey to Wellness Virtual Event

BY MARISSA JOHNSON O'odham Action News marissa.johnson2@srpmic-nsn.gov

Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community departments have had to be creative and find new ways to deliver their services during the COVID-19 pandemic, such as through Zoom.

The latest from Diabetes Prevention Services is their Journey to Wellness 2020 program. Everyone's daily routines have been interrupted because of COVID-19, and this includes workout routines as well. However, just because the gyms have closed does not mean that working out can be canceled. This is the focus of the Journey to Wellness program.

Journey to Wellness consists of individual Zoom sessions that focus on weight loss, food and diet, diabetes management, mindset, exercise tips, resources and strategies for change. Using Zoom, these sessions are easily accessible to people in the comfort of their own homes. The Journey to Wellness 2020 Virtual Event took place November 16-20, with big giveaways and prizes for participating. Goodie bags were given out to those who registered to help aid them in the cooking sessions. The bags were filled with a cast-iron pan, a heat-resistant spatula set, a mason jar, The Sioux Chef's Indigenous Kitchen cookbook and nutrition pamphlets. Guest speakers at the event included Jennell Clark, nurse and Certified Diabetes Care and Education Specialist; MaryLynn Marshburn, registered dietitian; nurse practitioner Christina Interpreter; fitness specialist Dion Begay; therapist Jessica Hunter; and pharmacist Robert Boyle.

For example, on November 16, chef Lois Ellen Frank hosted a cooking demonstration, preparing red chili sauce made with dried pods and blue corn mush (corn pudding). The raffle prizes in this session included a grill/ cookbook combo and a gift basket from Ramona Farms. The Zoom session muted the audience upon entry to ensure everyone could easily follow along with Frank's cooking instructions, but the chat window remained open for questions and comments. On November 18, Dion Begay showcased an hour-long exercise session focusing on resistance training. Begay's video focused on the entire body and how to properly use the equipment.

The powerful thing about having these sessions online is the ability to record them. Diabetes Prevention Services records every session to post online for free access to anyone. So, if you missed a session, they all will be posted at a later date. To sign up for the Journey to Wellness program, go to Fitnessfest.org/ journeytowellness. If you have any questions regarding these sessions, email Diabetes Prevention Services at info@fitnessfest.org.

Our future is shaped by the decisions we make today. That's why we're investing $50 million to serve the needs of American Indian, Native Hawaiian, and Alaska Native communities, from affordable housing and financial health to scholarships and small business support.

For over 60 years, we've been providing capital and financial services to Native communities and businesses and we'll continue to work together to make better tomorrows for generations to come.

SRPMIC Thanksgiving Dinner History and Virtual Events

BY MARISSA JOHNSON O'odham Action News marissa.johnson2@srpmic-nsn.gov

In a typical year, the Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community celebrates with a large number of fun and active events that bring everyone together to enjoy the holidays. The O'odham and Piipaash are known to be very social people, and our annual holidays are a time to be in each other's presence, catch up, enjoy the company and have fun.

The first Community Thanksgiving dinner took place at the Salt River Ballfield. It relocated to the Salt River Community Building, and most recently it has been held at the Two Waters Round House Café. Community member Vikki Andrew, who hosted the event during her time at the Recreation Department before the event moved to the Community Relations Office, recalls being at the Community Thanksgiving dinner at Salt River Ballfield.

"It was years ago; I remember they used to have it at the ballfield," Andrews said. "There was a teacher there at the day school. She is the one who was in control of it. I remember they used to serve over at the ballfield. ... I was just a kid then, but I remember it."

Andrews reminisced about how the seniors were their biggest volunteers for the dinner when she started working for the Recreation Department.

"They just loved it," Andrews said. "They loved coming to help because they always got to take home extra stuff. It was something they looked forward to every year. They would come in and [carve] the hams. We always catered towards the hams and the turkey. But the hams would come whole, so the ladies would slice the hams up. Then we would throw the ham bones into the big pots of beans we were cooking. So, we always prepared beans, dressing, mashed potatoes and whatever vegetables we chose, and then tortillas. We always did tortillas, but to involve more of the Community, we put it out to the Community. Everyone made cemait and would bring them in."

The Community Thanksgiving Dinner has always been about bringing people together. That tradition of togetherness still holds today, explained Community Relations Event Manager Yvonne Schaaf.

"Volunteers have always been a part of the event," Schaaf said. "I believe in the beginning it was Community members that organized the dinner; everyone came together to help prep, cook, set up [and] get everything all prepared. Think big family dinner! It has just evolved into what it is now. Volunteers now come from all different organizations in and outside of the Community. Even families come together to assist."

This year has proven to be an unprecedented year, with COVID-19 hitting the world. With many preventive measures in place, one of the key safety rules is to avoid large gatherings of people, which puts a hold on many of Salt River's annual events. The Thanksgiving Dinner from Community Relations is no different; this year, it went virtual.

In place of an in-person dinner, different at-home activities were designed for people to partake in. November 10 was the day when people could start to register for these fun virtual events. November 20 was the deadline to submit an entry for the Holiday Side Dish Challenge, in which participants submitted photos and/or videos showcasing their best Thanksgiving side dish. Winning participants won a $50 Bashas' gift card. The Turkey Calling Contest ended on November 23; participants had to shoot a 10-second video performing their best turkey call. They had a chance to win a Samsung TV or even a Nintendo Switch.

On November 16, Community Relations presented the band Ramoncito & Co. in a prerecorded concert featuring waila and cumbia music to dance to while cooks worked on their turkey dinner at home.

"Today, the world we live in is preventing us as a Community to gather. I see that while [a virtual event is] not what we would want, it's what we need as a Community to protect each other and ourselves," said Schaaf. "We need to do our part. Families need to get creative in their planning this year for all the holidays coming up. Think about what you love most (doing, eating, watching); focus on that and expand on it at home. It's our time to work together to do something good and meaningful We will all come back stronger in 2021, and when it's safe we will gather again. I'm looking forward to that time ... to eat, enjoy entertainment and visit. The Community Thanksgiving Dinner will be back!"

Just because this year's event is different, the spirit of the event is the same as ever. The Community's Thanksgiving event goes back a long way, and stories about it bring familiar feelings of togetherness and fun.

Steps to Help Prevent the Spread of COVID-19 If You Are Sick

If you are sick with COVID-19 or think you might have COVID-19, follow the steps below to care for yourself and to help protect other people in your home and community.

Stay home except to get medical care

- Stay home. Most people with COVID-19 have mild illness and can recover at home without medical care. Do not leave your home, except to get medical care. Do not visit public areas.
- Take care of yourself. Get rest and stay hydrated. Take over-the-counter medicines, such as acetaminophen, to help you feel better.
- Stay in touch with your doctor. Call before you get medical care. Be sure to get care if you have trouble breathing, or have any other emergency warning signs, or if you think it is an emergency.
- Avoid public transportation, ridesharing, or taxis.

Separate yourself from other people

As much as possible, stay in a specific room and away from other people and pets in your home. If possible, you should use a separate bathroom. If you need to be around other people or animals in or outside of the home, wear a mask.

Tell your close contacts that they may have been exposed to COVID-19. An infected person can spread COVID-19 starting 48 hours (or 2 days) before the person has any symptoms or tests positive. By letting your close contacts know they may have been exposed to COVID-19, you are helping to protect everyone.

Additional guidance is available for those living in close quarters and shared housing.

- See COVID-19 and Animals if you have questions about pets.
- If you are diagnosed with CO-VID-19, someone from the health department may call you. Answer the call to slow the spread. Monitor your symptoms
- Symptoms of COVID-19 include fever, cough, or other symptoms.
- Follow care instructions from your healthcare provider and local health department. Your local health authorities may give instructions on checking your symptoms and reporting information.

When to seek emergency medical attention

Look for emergency warning signs* for COVID-19. If someone is showing any of these signs, seek emergency medical care immediately:

- Trouble breathing
- Persistent pain or pressure in the chest
- New confusion
- Inability to wake or stay awake
- Bluish lips or face

*This list is not all possible symptoms. Please call your medical provider for any other symptoms that are severe or concerning to you.

Call 911 or call ahead to your local emergency facility: Notify the operator that you are seeking care for someone who has or may have COVID-19.

Call ahead before visiting your doctor

- Call ahead. Many medical visits for routine care are being postponed or done by phone or telemedicine.
- If you have a medical appointment that cannot be postponed, call your doctor's office, and tell them you have or may have COVID-19. This will help the office protect themselves and other patients.

If you are sick, wear a mask over your nose and mouth

- You should wear a mask over your nose and mouth if you must be around other people or animals, including pets (even at home).
- You don't need to wear the mask if you are alone. If you can't put on a mask (because of trouble breathing, for example), cover your coughs and sneezes in some other way. Try to stay at least 6 feet away from other people. This will help protect the people around you.
- Masks should not be placed on young children under age 2 years, anyone who has trouble breathing, or anyone who is not able to remove the mask without help.

Note: During the COVID-19 pandemic, medical grade facemasks are reserved for healthcare workers and some first responders.

Cover your coughs and sneezes

- Cover your mouth and nose with a tissue when you cough or sneeze. Throw away used tissues in a lined trash can.
- Immediately wash your hands with soap and water for at least 20 seconds. If soap and water are not available, clean your hands with an alcohol-based hand sanitizer that contains at least 60% alcohol.

Clean your hands often

· Wash your hands often with soap and water for at least 20 seconds. This is especially important after blowing your nose, coughing, or sneezing; going to the bathroom; and before eating or preparing food.

- Use hand sanitizer if soap and water are not available. Use an alcohol-based hand sanitizer with at least 60% alcohol, covering all surfaces of your hands and rubbing them together until they feel dry.
- Soap and water are the best option, especially if hands are visibly dirty
- Avoid touching your eyes, nose, and mouth with unwashed hands. Handwashing Tips

Avoid sharing personal household items

- Do not share dishes, drinking glasses, cups, eating utensils, towels, or bedding with other people in your home.
- Wash these items thoroughly after using them with soap and water or put in the dishwasher.

Clean all "high-touch" surfaces everyday

- Clean and disinfect high-touch surfaces in your "sick room" and bathroom; wear disposable gloves. Let someone else clean and disinfect surfaces in common areas, but you should clean your bedroom and bathroom, if possible.
- If a caregiver or other person needs to clean and disinfect a sick person's bedroom or bathroom, they should do so on an as-needed basis. The caregiver/other person should wear a mask and disposable gloves prior to cleaning. They should wait as long as possible after the person who is sick has used the bathroom before coming in to clean and use the bathroom.

High-touch surfaces include phones, remote controls, counters, tabletops, doorknobs, bathroom fixtures, toilets, keyboards, tablets, and bedside tables.

Clean and disinfect areas that may have blood, stool, or body fluids on them.

- Use household cleaners and disinfectants. Clean the area or item with soap and water or another detergent if it is dirty. Then, use a household disinfectant.
 - Be sure to follow the instructions on the label to ensure safe and effective use of the product. Many products recommend keeping the surface wet for several minutes to ensure germs are killed. Many also recommend precautions such as wearing gloves and making sure you have good ventilation during use of the product.
 - Most EPA-registered household disinfectants should be effective. A full list of disinfectants can be found hereexternal icon.

Library Presents 'Giving Thanks' Art Showcase

BY MARISSA JOHNSON O'odham Action News marissa.johnson2@srpmic-nsn.gov

The Salt River Tribal Library is hosting an art exhibition, the Giving Thanks Art Showcase, for Thanksgiving this year. Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community members, employees and families get to be creative about what they are thankful for. Librarian Melissa Rave and Library Assistant Latiesha Guy shared some information regarding the event.

"The Giving Thanks Art Showcase is a video we are excited to share with the Community," Rave said. "We asked Community members, residents, employees and their families to get artistic and share what they are thankful for or what gives them hope that things will get better. The video is set to air Thanksgiving Day on the Way of Life Facility Facebook page."

The theme was chosen to coincide with the upcoming Thanksgiving holiday. Since this year has seen many challenges, this video concept was developed to allow Community members to reflect on the past year by focusing on what is pushing them forward and helping them persevere. It was also a way to help participants express themselves creatively. Like many departments, the library has started to use virtual means to provide its services to the Community. 'Salt River Tribal Library has done virtual events since June of this year, with the start of the Summer Reading Program. We will continue to do programs both live and recorded until it is safe to gather in person again," Guy said. "We enjoy interacting with our patrons, so we have shifted our focus since October to include more live programming."

Art submitted by Mya Lujan on her vision of hope

Guy explained that these programs are an important part of the Salt River Tribal Library, as they help people of all ages keep their minds active, reduce stress and produce a sense of accomplishment, which is vital to the wellbeing of Community members during these challenging times.

Rave and Guy explained what we expect to see in December.

Students Practice Citizenship Responsibilities by Voting

BY CHRIS PICCIUOLO O'odham Action News chris.picciuolo@srpmic-nsn.gov

For the 2020 U.S. General Election, Salt River Schools students were able to make grown-up decisions by participating in a mock election through the nonprofit, nonpartisan, grassrootsdriven voter education program called Kids Voting Arizona.

A total of 69 votes were cast for President and Vice President tickets, with 66.67% of the votes, 46 total, going to Democratic candidate Joe Biden. Republican candidate Donald Trump received 13 votes and 18.84% of the vote, while Libertarian candidate Jo Jorgensen came in a close third place with 8 votes and Green Party candidate Howie Hawkins took 2 votes.

The students also voted for U.S. Senator to represent Arizona; they chose Democratic candidate Mark Kelly, with 35 votes at 60.34%, over Republican candidate Martha McSally, with 23 votes at 39.66%.

Making the election experience more realistic, students could also make the decision to retain judges in office. With a 29-25 vote, Andrew W. Gould could keep his position, as well as John Lopez IV with a 31-23 vote. Unfortunately for Robert Brutinel, the students decided his time was up, with 23 yeas and 29 nays.

Youth were also encouraged to exercise their right to vote by putting a fun and yummy spin on the process by voting for their favorite meal and dessert. Pizza received more votes than hot dogs at 100-17, and ice cream beat out popsicles 79-39, with the winners being served on Tuesday, November 3.

"Being an active, informed and caring citizen isn't something you're just born with; these qualities must be taught in order to make communities strong," said Taté Walker, MSAS, communications and public relations director at Salt River Schools. "At Salt River Schools, we're committed to helping children find joy in their citizenship roles and responsibilities, and providing opportunities to vote that coincide with what adults experience is one way to accomplish this. I think what we saw this year are young people who will take more interest in their voting rights and responsibilities as they grow and are one day eventually able to vote in political elections."

Salt River Elementary School teacher Dawn Meyers, who currently teaches music and movement and formerly taught kindergarten, said that they started the Kids Voting Arizona program at the school in 2004. "I even have the article that was in an Au-Authm Action News October 2004 edition. I keep other newspaper articles from all the other years it's been covered: 2006, 2008, 2012, 2016, 2018,"

The council develops new ideas for increasing voting in their communities and engaging the next generation of citizen leaders.

SRPMIC Ordinance Chapter 17 Land Management Board - Proposed Amendment - 60 Day Public Comment Period

SUMMARY

The SRPMIC Land Management Board (LMB) is seeking public review and comment on a proposed Ordinance update. SRPMIC LMB was launched in the early 1970's to assist the Community and leadership with land use and development considerations and recommendations. The enabling Ordinance for the LMB has been in place for almost 50 years without an update and the LMB is seeking a modernization of language. Over the last five decades, the Community has taken on leadership of many federal functions, federal regulations have changed and SRPMIC expertise has expanded. The LMB Ordinance amendment has taken these factors to incorporate updates to its enabling legislation, to include:

- A. Updating language and eliminating duplication in scope of the Board
- B. Clarification of timelines
- C. Clarifying Board Membership and residency

Your comments, questions and input are welcome! All public comments are due by 5 p.m. on Tuesday, January 19, 2021. Please submit your comments by email to Stacey.Gubser@ srpmic-nsn.gov or call the CDD Offices at (480) 362-7600 and leave a message for Meredith Duwyenie. Additionally, this ordinance may be on the agenda for upcoming Council District meetings and your comments, ideas and input can be provided at that time.

Savvy Senior Noticing Memory Problems? What to Do Next

Dear Savvy Senior,

My mom, who's 76, has become more forgetful lately and is worried she may be getting Alzheimer's disease. What resources can you recommend to help us get a handle on this?

Oldest Daughter

Dear Oldest,

Many seniors worry about memory lapses as they get older, fearing it may be the first signs of Alzheimer's disease or some other type of dementia. To get some insight on the seriousness of your mom's problem, here are some key warning signs to be vigilant of and some resources you can turn to for help.

Warning Signs

As we grow older, some memory difficulties – such as trouble remembering names of people or places or forgetting where you put your glasses or car keys - are associated with normal aging. But the symptoms of Alzheimer's disease are much more than simple memory lapses.

Knowing the early warning signs is a good first step in recognizing the difference between typical age-related memory loss and a more serious problem. To help you evaluate your mom's condition, here's a checklist of some common early symptoms to watch for:

- Asking the same questions repeatedly.
- Getting lost in familiar areas was developed at The Ohio State University Wexner Medical Center. This free test helps identify mild cognitive impairment and early dementia and can be taken at home in about 10 to 15 minutes. The SAGE test can be taken online at BrainTest.com.

Get Help

If you would rather have professional assistance in evaluating your mom, the Alzheimer's Foundation of America (see alzfdn.org) is another good resource you can turn to.

Every Monday, Wednesday and Friday they provide free, confidential virtual memory screenings done via video chat in real time. Your mother will need a phone, tablet or computer with a webcam and internet capability to complete the screening.

The screenings are given by healthcare professionals and take about 10 to 15 minutes to complete. Once the screening is complete, the screener will review the results with her and let her know if she should see a doctor for further evaluation. To set up a memory screening for your mom call 866-232-8484 and make an appointment.

If you find that your mom does need further evaluation, make an appointment with her primary care doctor for a cognitive checkup and medical examination. Depending on what's found, she may be referred to a geriatrician or neurologist who specializes in the person shall not be released from custody for more than 14 hours, in a calendar day and no more than six days per week.

(I) Repealed

16-232. Implied consent; tests; refusal to submit.

(c) Refusal to submit to test.

(1) If a person under arrest refuses to submit to a chemical test as provided in subsection (a) of this section, none shall be given unless a police officer secures a search warrant from a tribal, state, or federal judge who has jurisdiction over the matter. A person who fails to expressly agree to a chemical test shall be deemed guilty of a civil offense in violation of section 16-231(c), and shall be subject to a sentence pursuant to section 16-231(h).

(3) Refusal does not preclude issuance of a search warrant. The fact that a violator has refused to submit to a chemical test as provided in subsection (a) of this section shall not preclude a judge of the Salt River Community Court from approving a search warrant for blood or other bodily fluid in order to secure evidence of a possible violation of section 16-231(a) or 16-231(b) of this chapter, provided that the judge is satisfied that probable cause exists that there has been a violation of said subsection.
